THE FIGURES ARE STARTLING.

Consumption of Liquors Is Increased Every Year.

CIGARETTE EVIL GROWS

The Liquor Increase Was 11,000,000 Gallons Over Year 1906.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Statistics made public by John G. Capers, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, will doubtless startle persons and organizations whose aim is to wipe out the use of alcoholic liquor, except for medicinal purposes, and put an end to the snuff habit in this country.

During the fiscal year 1907 there was used 134,142,074 gallons of spirits distilled from grains, an increase over 1906 of 11,409,252. This tremendous quantity of whisky, etc., produced $147,556,281 of revenue for Uncle Sam, an increase of $12,550,177 during the twelve-month period.

Cordials and liquors increased from 1,781,648 gallons to 1,993,688 gallons, and the revenue thereon from $1,959,607 to $2,193,067.

The breweries increased from 54,641,637 barrels to 58,546,111 barrels, or about 7 per cent, as against a 9 per cent. increase for the distilleries.

The beer, ale, malt extracts, etc., brought $58,546,110 into the United States Treasury, an increase of $3,894,474 over 1906.

In addition to this the Government collected $1,021,706 in special taxes from brewers and retail and wholesale dealers in fermented goods, while the special taxes from dealers in spirits reached approximately $6,000,000.

The cigarette statistics are particularly impressive, and these embrace only the manufactured kind, not those made by hand by the hundreds of thousands of smokers throughout the country.

The cigarettes consumed during the year reached the prodigious total of 5,167,021,357, an increase of $1,404,600.

Sumptuary laws against cigarette smoking, such as are in operation in Indiana, seem not to check the habit.

The use of cigars continues to be universal, although the relative increase cannot be compared with the growth of the cigarette business.

In 1907 there went up in smoke no less than 8,642,278,219 cigars, as against 7,870,372,948 in 1906. The sales resulting from this heavy cloud exceeded $23,000,000, nearly $2,000,000 more than last year.

The American people also chewed and smoked 369,186,303 pounds of plug and loose tobacco, much of it grown in Kentucky, an increase of 14,270,804 pounds in a year.

This kind of weed produced $22,151,178 of revenue for the Federal Government. And, besides the smoking and chewing, the people used up 23,401,196 pounds of snuff, an increase of 680,658 pounds, which provided $1,404,071 of taxes.

It is a mystery to the internal revenue officials where all this snuff goes.

WHAT KENTUCKY PAYS.

During the fiscal year the aggregate revenue collections reached $269,664,022, an increase of $20,651,284 over 1906. Of this great sum Kentucky produced $28,444,438, or nearly 10 1/2 per cent. The various districts contributed as follows: Second, E. T. Frank, collector, $2,573,921; Fifth, J. A. Craft, $15,654,191; Sixth, C. W. Sieberth, $3,760,657; Seventh, S. J. Roberts, $2,599,779; Eighth, J. S. Cooper, $2,859,888.

CLIMAX MILLING CO. IS READY FOR SOUTHERN TRADE.

Newest Machinery, Latest Adaptations to Make Perfect Flour.

NOW USING LOTS OF INK

Men of Business and Money Behind The New Corporation.

The Climax Mills are now in full operation and are daily making two grades of flour that rank with the very best made in the United States. The public is being supplied with little sacks, free of charge, that will demonstrate that our assertion is true.

For the past three years many promoters have been in this midst asking the assistance of our citizens in establishing different industries here, and not one has ever been turned down by the city authorities or the progressive business men of Hopkinsville. Some of them held out golden promises of the investment of foreign capital for the construction of a street railway, shoe factories, and so on through an almost innumerable list of enterprises that would have made Hopkinsville a city of the second class in a few years. But when the time came for "something to turn up" the Micawber-like promoters vanished like a dream. The Eastern capital was not available, and when the wrappers were torn off the propositions, when read between the lines, were found to be not worth the paper on which they were written, merely showing that gain and emolument for the promoters were watered-in on every page.

Thus it was. Men of good business capacity saw through well-conceived but poorly disguised intentions of the outsiders and the alert "soon got on" to the fact that the future rebuilding and development of Hopkinsville rested in our people, and that home capital and home men only must make our city what it is to be.

For thirty years efforts have, at various times, been made to develop Hopkinsville along manufacturing lines but every effort has been futile, and somehow, "just naturally"—our city has become a milling center. Today the products of our flouring mills are better known in the South than are the "Pillsbury" in other sections of the country.

HISTORY.

The history of the Climax Mills is brief but highly interesting from the fact that from the conception of the scheme to the completion of the building and installation of the plant consumed so short a time was consumed. It is almost incredible.

Ground was broken on Sept. 20th, 1906, brick laying began October 19th and on the 8th day of the present month, after repeated tests of the machinery, a stream of wheat was turned in and grinding began. Only ten months! Had the winter of 1906-07 not been unusually favorable, building the new mill would have been pushed with all the vigor possible, it is true, but unavoidable delays in the delivery of some of the machinery might have prevented the "starting day" being as early as August 8th. But the officers of the company announced at the outset that the 1907 crop of wheat would be taken care of and most faithfully have they made good their promise.

The officers and stockholders of the new enterprise represent men of our city and Christian county. When the leading spirits got to work to raise the necessary capital to build and equip the Climax Mills they met with no discouragement whatever, for men who had money to invest freely subscribed and in a short time all the stock was taken.

James West, W. T. Cooper and Ross A. Rogers, got together one spring morning and discussed the plan of starting another flouring mill, and after considering the situation from every view-point, arrived at the conclusion that there was plenty of room for a fourth large mill in this, the center of the garden spot of the State.

They then enlisted the encouragement and financial support of Moses L. Elb and T. J. Tate. These five men then "got a move on themselves" and soon had enough of our citizens with them to assure the early erection of the building and installation of the machinery.

It is not the purpose of this article to throw bouquets to anyone. These men are so well known as sound business men that, while a word of praise and commendation may be in order, we will content ourselves with saying to some of our people of means and enterprise: "Go thou and do likewise"—use your talents, your money and your time as they have theirs, and Greater Hopkinsville will be greater still in a few short years.

Robt. W. Norwood, Sec. and Treas.
Mr. Elb is one of the leading merchants and property owners in the city. Mr. Campbell is a substantial farmer and Clerk of the Christian County Court. Mr. Carroll is a successful farmer. Mr. Tate is a capitalist and a large property owner.

The Climax Mills, thoroughly equipped with the latest and most approved roller mills, is now making two grades of flour, "Ladder" and "Preference," both patent brands. The "Reliance" is a family flour. The present capacity of the mill is 400 barrels per day. The company says that no mill that has not adopted the improved machinery up to within a year is at all up to date. One of the late inventions (not more than five years old, probably) is that of an Owensboro man for bleaching and aging flour by electricity. Of course the Climax would not neglect using this invention in its products. The company with an eye to the future, put in a 250 horse-power Corliss engine. When the time arrives the capacity can be increased to 1,000 barrels per day at a light expense, as the engine stands ready for driving the additional machinery. The storage department of the building is fast being filled with 25lb and 50lb sacks and barrels, ready for shipment and a salesman is out receiving orders for the new flour to be put on the Southern market.

In addition to the large engine there is one of less driving power, which can be used in connection with the larger, if necessary. Both of these engines are of the finest make and the latest improvements have been adopted in their construction. The large brick building that contains all the machinery, the 18 concrete wheat bins, the annex, stables, etc., are all lighted with electricity, furnished on the first floor by the company's own dynamo. There is no part of the building where the light is not as good (and in some parts better) than daylight when the lights are turned on. The watchman, in his nightly rounds, has to make a record by means of 12 or more little timepieces in different parts of the building. He is required to make the rounds every hour from the time he goes on duty at 6 o'clock p. m. to 6 o'clock a. m. Every visit to the little tale-tellers is stamped on a card in the office, and all the manager has to do to test his night-watchman is to look at the record—

"figures never lie."

Every precaution against fire has been taken. Hatchdoors, doors that close themselves by the melting of a piece of lead when the heat in a burning room may reach a certain temperature; 6-inch floors resting on joists that are flush with the cross beams to prevent draught; 50 feet of rubber hose placed here and there on all floors; barrels filled with water and buckets that can't be made to rest any way except with top up, for they can't turn over; speaking tubes and alarm gongs communicating with every part of the plant; all these and many other precautions render the building almost, if not quite absolutely fire-proof. ## EX-MAYOR BARTH,

Of Louisville, Kills Himself.

Louisville, Aug. 21.—Paul C. Barth, for a year and a half Mayor of Louisville and ousted recently by the decision of the Court of Appeals, shot and killed himself today. Mr. Barth ended his life in his private office at the headquarters of the Utica Lime Company, of which he was General Manager. His shot was heard by his business associates, who rushed into the room to find Mr. Barth unconscious on the floor with a bullet hole in his head. He never recovered consciousness and died about 1 o'clock.

Mr. Barth was a man of means and was President of the Board of Aldermen for several years. It was Mr. Barth who welcomed President Roosevelt when the President made his Southwestern tour two years ago.

The cause of the suicide is unknown. Since the ousting of Mr. Barth's administration by mandate of the Court of Appeals two months ago the acts of the officials during his term have been subjected to severe scrutiny by the officials who came in with Mayor Bingham, appointed by Gov. Beckham. Nothing was found that reflected any discredit on Mr. Barth personally, but the methods of conducting some of the city institutions has been under fire both in the official reports and in the press. Mr. Barth was very sensitive to criticism, and his friends remarked at times that the condition of affairs seemed to gall him. However he gave no evidence that he was in any danger of breaking down, physically or mentally, and, since the ouster, had been conducting his business affairs as had been usual before he assumed office. He was not only a manager of the Utica Lime Company, but had a large interest in the Ohio River Sand & Gravel Company, of which he was the active head.

Mr. Barth was forty-nine years old. He was a widower and leaves three young sons.

FORMS OF SOCIETY

ETIQUETTE THAT MARKS THE WELL BREED.

Time for Returning First Calls a Matter on Which Authorities Differ—Housewife for the Sewing Room.

First calls should be returned within a week, according to "Manners and Social Usages" (Harper Brothers), or, as some authorities say, within a fortnight. If a lady is invited to any entertainment by a new acquaintance, whether the invitation comes through a friend or not, she should immediately leave cards, and send either a regret or an acceptance. To lose time in this matter is rude. Whether she attend the entertainment or not, she should call after it within a week. Then, having done all that is polite, and having shown herself a woman of good breeding, she can keep up the acquaintance or not as she pleases. Sometimes there are reasons why a lady does not wish to keep up the acquaintance, but she must recognize the politeness extended.

No first visit should be returned by card only; this would be considered a slight unless followed by an invitation. The size of New York, the great distances, the busy life of a woman of charities, large family, and immense circle of acquaintances may render a personal visit almost impossible. She may be considered to have done her duty if she, in her turn, asks her new acquaintance to call on her on a specified day, if she is not herself able to call in person.

After balls, amateur concerts, theatrical parties, garden parties, "at homes," cards should be left by all invited guests within a week after the event, particularly if the invited guest has been obliged to decline. These cards may be left without inquiring for the hostess, if time presses or if the weather is bad; but it is more polite to ask for her, even if it is not her day. If it is her reception day, it would be rude not to inquire, enter, and pay a personal visit. After a dinner or a formal luncheon, one must pay a personal visit. These are called "visits of digestion," and a person who fails to pay them is thought to be lacking in courtesy, especially in the case of an invitation to dinner.

It is proper to call in person, or to leave a card, after an acquaintance has lost a relative, after an engagement is announced, after a marriage has taken place, and after a return from Europe; but, as society grows larger and larger, these visits may be omitted, and cards sent if it is impossible to pay the visits personally.

A novel and convenient article for the sewing room is the housewife made on the plan of a suit case. It stands vertically, and is made of wood. The upper inside is fitted with shelves and pegs for spools, hooks, scissors, etc., and also a small folding shelf supported by hinges and chains. The lower part is lined with a pretty design of cretonne, against which is tacked several pockets of the same material for pieces, tapes, etc., three on one side and a large one on the other. On each side of the large pocket is a brass fixture to hold shears. All inside metal fittings are of brass. This particular housewife is stained a dark brown, with a row of nickel like a regular suit case, but it can be made in any color to match the furniture of the sewing room. When not in use it can be closed, and thus be kept free from dust. Although this convenient article is rather expensive to buy at the shops, any competent worker in wood can make it at slight cost.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Add alum to the paste used in scrap books and it will keep the moths out of them.

Rub the backs of old paintings with oil of cedar to protect them from injury by insects.

Add a pinch of soda in water in which fresh-cut flowers are put and they will keep longer.

Do not stretch table linen, but from white damp, and press until quite dry, otherwise it will be too limp.

There is no better filling for needle and pin cushions than sheep's wool, as its oily qualities prevent the needles from rusting.

After the carpet is tacked down, if it is liberally sprinkled with salt and swept with a clean broom the colors will be brightened wonderfully.

Cut stale bread into the thinnest possible slices and brown it in the oven. Then crush it with a rolling pin, and you will have bread crumbs for browning cutlets, fried oysters and the like.

How to Clean Brass.

First clean the brass in the ordinary way either with one of the ready-made polishes, or with paraffin and finely powdered bathbrick mixed to a rather soft consistency. Polish with dry, finely powdered bathbrick, then rub quickly over with a little petrol, and afterward polish with dry whiting and a leather, using a brush for any parts into which the leather will not go.

Be sure that all stains are removed before you begin polishing. Stains of long standing, that bough ready-made polishes will not move, will always yield to a vigorous treatment with bathbrick and paraffin; in fact, this, applied with a rather stiff nailbrush, is what dealers use to clean old brass that has become absolutely black through lying by.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

What a Heap of Happiness it Would Bring to Hopkinsville Homes.

Hard to do housework with an aching back. Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.

If women only knew the cause—that Backache pains come from sick kidneys. 'Twould save much needless woe. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys. Hopkinsville people endorse this:

Miss L. A. Hester, 826 North Main Street, Hopkinsville, Ky., says: "I honestly believe that there is little need of any one suffering the torture of backache when such an effective remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills can be procured at L. A. Johnson's drug store. The prompt and thorough relief which followed their use in my case has given me the abiding faith in their merits. In the summer of 1903 I was suffering greatly from weakness and lameness across the small of my back and other difficulties arising from a weakness of the kidneys. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills was all I required to free me from the distressing pain in my back and restore my kidneys to a good healthy condition. I recommended Doan's Kidney Pills at that time and during the four years which have elapsed I still hold the same good opinion of the remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents.

Complains of Noise Nuisance.

"It is a distressing fact that some of our most efficient labor-saving devices are peace disturbing and nerve destroying because of the internal racket they create. The pneumatic hammer, swaging machine, swaging hammer and most percussive tools are capable of much greater usefulness than they have yet attained, but," remarks the editor of Machinery, "one cannot consistently wish them to come into general use until some means is invented to mitigate the noise nuisance."

The Groom's Duty.

A little maid of three was showing the family album to her baby brother, and when she saw the picture of their young mother in her wedding gown, she said to him: "Now, Waldron, here's your mother getting married." And turning to the picture of their father on the opposite page, she continued: "And here's your father standing by."

Could anything be more apt than her description of the groom?—Harper's Magazine.

NEW SHADE OF RED.

Pronounced Color Popular With Fashion's Devotees.

Dragon's blood is the new shade of red which has been brought into prominence, and although the name suggests barbarism, colorists seem to have dipped deep into the heart of the American Beauty rose for their newest inspiration. Not that fashionable women have tired of the brown and greens, for these are in evidence everywhere, and scarcely any two shades alike, but Paris likes novelty and the couturiers must supply it in color when there is a lull in the number of designs or new decorative schemes.

Browns of various shades come next to come, but very dark shades will be worn. Golden browns and russet shades are the deepest and for summer wear the tans and ecrus, as always, will be much seen.

The coming shade of green will be that rich, pure tone called forest green. It lacks the blue of the emerald tones and the yellow of the bronze shades. It is an especially good shade with which to place other colors without discord.

Hawk Files Off with Pet Cat.

A large hawk that has for two years been carrying off poultry in and around Fortenla, Wayne county, recently locked its talons on a cat belonging to Frank Morse, says a Honesdale correspondent of the Philadelphia Record.

The cat put up a big fight, but the hawk had kitty by the back and the red ribbon on the cat's neck could be seen fluttering hundreds of feet in the air until it disappeared over the hills. The latest reports from the town are to the effect that mothers are keeping close watch on their little children for fear the vicious bird will try also to carry them away.

Where Fabrics Get Names.
"An odd thing about fabrics," said a cloth merchant, "is that their names are all intensely significant. Muslin, for instance, is so called because it originated in the Asiatic town of Mosul."

"Serge was invented in Xerga by the Spaniards. Calico is a product of Calcutta. Alpaca is woven from the wool of the alpaca, a kind of llama. Cambric comes from Cambril."

"Shall I go on?" Damask hails originally from Damascus, halse is from Bajaz, dimity is from Dama, gauze is from Gaza, and so forth, almost indefinitely.

Military Ballooning.
An army signal officer, Capt. Charles De F. Chandler, will make balloon ascensions whenever and wherever the opportunity is presented. This is a part of the plan of Gen. Allen, the chief signal officer of the army, to obtain all possible information in regard to ballooning, with the idea of possessing at first hand data which would be of service in aerial observations. Capt. Chandler is an enthusiast on military ballooning. Whenever it is possible to accompany an aeronaut on his trips Capt. Chandler will be detailed to attend.

Woman's Place in the World.
The "half angel, half devil" period in the life of the woman's world. She is fighting her way into every sphere of human activity. Her labor is coming into competition with that of men in nearly every department of industry. In the learned professions she is forcing herself to the front by sheer determination and force of intellect in a way that will not be denied. Sooner or later men will be compelled to treat with her and recognize her as a coworker, and they could not begin better than by admitting her right to be a coworker.—James Kirk Hardie.

Home Champagne Popular.
The conclusion of the bureau of statistics from the study of the champagne production in the United States is that the quantity of genuine fermented-in-the-bottle "champagne" wine produced in this country at present is nearly one-half as great as the importation of wine of the same general class; or, in other words, that about one-third of the genuine champagne wine now consumed in this country is of domestic production and the proportion which the home product forms of the total is rapidly increasing.

Bass.
Nobody can doubt the capacity of the famous Washington county black bass. Jwallowing live rabbits is one of their favorite pastimes. Nor can there be any doubt as to the fine flavor which a rabbit, fed on the spring verdure of Texas, imparts to Texas' unrivaled black bass. The Potomac black bass have some local reputation in the vicinity of Washington, but they feed for the most part on small frogs and June bugs and do not grow to heroic proportions like the bass of more ample Texas.—Houston Post.

Eyes a Barometer.
The eyes are to a wonderful degree a barometer for our feelings. Half the people in the world are seasick only from seeing the waves move. If you doubt this, stand a person in front of a mirror on the wall and slowly move the mirror forward first from one side, then from the other. Nine out of every ten women will feel seasick at once.

Sighed for Many Privileges.
Egbert had been reproved by his mother for using improper language and was told to ask forgiveness when he said his evening prayer. "Oh, Lord," he said, "I'm awfully sorry I said those naughty words. Please forgive me and bury up and make me a man so I can swear all I want to, like Uncle Bob does, and nobody will pay any attention to it."

Dr. Gorgas Doing Good Work.
The "angel of the isthmus" is what Dr. Gorgas was called by one of the men at a meeting of workers held at Corozal during the recent visit of the congressional party, writes Representative McCall, of Massachusetts. Dr. Gorgas is the head of the sanitary department and is directing affairs with remarkable skill and energy.

His Position.
"Why do you advocate anarchy? Don't you prefer the even if government could be abolished it would be formed anew?"
"Certainly," answered the habitual agitator. "And if I don't look a broad-eyed start I might turn up as one of the bosses." —Washington Star.

On One Condition.
Ella—Would you marry a man with one foot in the grave?
Stella—Yes, if he had had his life insured before getting it in.

Three registered mail sacks, containing about a quarter of a million dollars, disappeared from the Burlington train between Denter and Oxford, Neb., last Sunday night, and the postoffice officials have just made the theft public. The train left Denver with seven sacks and but four remained when it was discovered. Detectives and postoffice officials are at work on the case.

Thursday Night.

Umphey Lee, addressed about 300 people at the Tabernacle last Thursday night. He spoke on temperance. For one of his age he was well up on his subject and spoke with fluency and ease. He is fourteen years of age and is accompanied by his father, a native of Barren county, this State. His father was a second cousin of Gen. R. E. Lee. After singing and a prayer by Rev. H. D. Smith, Umphey was introduced in an eloquent little speech by Lieut. Stanley Bassett. A nice sum was dropped into the basket at the entrance as the people passed into the auditorium. The electric Light Co. charged the young orator almost nothing for lighting up the building. We learn that young Lee, who is on the platform for the purpose of raising money with which to go to Palestine.

HELPS FOR TOWN BUILDERS.

Some years ago on bill boards and street cars and in the pages of the magazines were run a series of advertising cards the prominent feature of which was "Spotted Town." There can be little doubt as to the wholesome lessons taught by this unique advertisement. The town that is not kept in good condition, its walks in good repair, its streets well graded, and all neat and clean, is a reflection upon the residents of the place, and is evidence that the town is already dead or fast dying. Should you make a good impression upon strangers, keep streets clean, business places attractive, and don't forget that the front yards and the general conditions of the residences indicate the character of the people who reside in them.

Residents of agricultural sections who a few years ago looked upon the automobile as a nuisance, are beginning to realize that it is a great factor in road improvement, and has brought about renewed interest in country roads and their betterment, with a corresponding benefit to the farmers. It is as much to the interest of the people of a town that there be good roads leading to it, as it is to the farmers who must use them in hauling their goods to market.

There is a vast difference in the farmers of today and the farmers of a quarter of a century ago. It is wonderful how the improvements brought into existence in a single generation have changed conditions. Every innovation that makes life in the towns more desirable, also finds a way of conferring a benefit upon the farmers. No longer need the resident of the farm district to not have all the up-to-date things that can be found in the finest city homes. The telephone and the rural delivery has brought him within a "stone throw" of the city.

Living for the Children.

Frederick's sentiment "Come, let us live for our children" rests on a sound philosophical basis. To live for them is to call out the noblest impulses of parenthood. And we cannot live for them in the truest sense until we become familiar with their needs. It is the endeavor to meet those needs in the largest way possible that we find our own characters richly recompensed in strong and well-developed parenthood. We practically become what we are by what we have done or left undone, what we are willing or unwilling to do for our children. The principle is universal, and should find its extension and application among children at all times and in all places. Has not the church lost ground in failing to recognize the primary and fundamental place of the child in society? If so, it is obvious how that lost ground may be recovered.—Herald-Review.

Anticipating Age.

Why do people allow themselves to fret about getting old? There are those who anticipate it and fear it as if it were the most melancholy fate that could befall one, and many of them have never been really young in spirit.

And youth is more a matter of spirit than it is of body. Enthusiasm, interest in everything, warmth of heart and breadth of feeling, are the qualities that stand for youth.

The Guile of the Greeks.

At first the more thoughtful ones regarded the gift suspiciously. Then, taking their turn thought, they said, one to the other:

"Aw, what's the diff? It's only a near-art horse, anyhow. Now, if it was one of those cheap wagons coming in here to break the speed limit laws we wouldn't stand for it for a minute."

"That it was, the victim of over-confidence, that Troy fall.—Puck.

CLIMAX MILLS.

account of all this, take their risks on a very liberal basis.

The company has recently succeeded in getting the L. & N. Railroad company to put in a track from the main line to the north end of the building, where wheat can be taken into the concrete bins direct from the cars at the rate of 1,000 bushels to the hour. The track is to be double and one of them has already been put down. On the west side of the mill is the track of the Belt Line. Thus it is seen that the Climax is the first company in the world that has two put itself along both lines of railroad, and it can ship or receive to or from every point of the compass.

It is interesting to watch the wheat go into the lower bin, about 16 feet under the ground, and flow in an endless stream over wide belts up to 84 feet in the air before it finds its place in one of the 18 reinforced concrete bins that defy destruction from fire, wind or lightning. And then when the wheat is turned into the ceaseless grind, first passing through a machine over a strongly magnetized plate that takes out everything metallic—nails, screws, pieces of iron, etc.—and then goes to a purifier, where the pieces of straw, weeds, chips, pieces of twine, and half a hundred other things that the miller paid for when he bought the wheat at so much per bushel. After passing up and down the tall tiers of bins half a dozen, or more times the wheat goes into a machine that cleans every grain more perfectly than a young mother does the face of her first babe—nothing but the skin of the grain remains and that is soon taken off and the grain converted into flour for man's use—fresh, pure and wholesome as the manna the Israelites gathered every morning in the wilderness. The husk, deficient grains, chaff, cockle and other useless stuff, go to another part of the building. Stock will get the bran while the balance of the refuse is blown out into the air, where the sparrows and pigeons are always busy "scratching for a living."

The boiler and engine rooms are fully worth a visit to the Climax. A modern flouring mill is really not a place for visitors, though they are courteously treated. Mr. Rogers is justly proud of the machinery and everything connected with his mill, but it is not safe to go through the entire establishment, as you are liable to get "wound up" in some of the exposed belts or wheels, and if you do your name is "Goner." The large tubular boilers are a reversal of the old kind. The water is in the tubes and the fire around them—the quickest way of raising steam that has yet been found out.

It is useless to say that the Climax Milling Co. has builded well and wisely. Backed up by such men as compose the board of directors and under the management of Mr. Rogers, who began the milling business as a packer when nothing but a kid putting the machinery in the hands of such a master miller as Mr. J. H. Oliver, who, though yet a young man, has seen service in the mills of Nashville, Estell Springs, McKenzie, Tenn., as well as the Acme Mills, of this city, and other places, the future of Hopkinsville's new industry cannot meet with anything but the prosperity that has been predicted for it by the people generally as well as that foreseen by the moving spirits of the company ten months ago.

The Climax Milling Co. is a strong believer in the virtues of printing ink and realizes the fact that if one has anything to sell, the public must know it before it can buy it and it will be the policy of the company to constantly keep its products before the people. The company knows that the field is large and that there is plenty of room, not only for themselves, but even other enterprises of like character.

UNITY OF INTERESTS.

Relationship of Residents of Rural Communities to the Home Town.

"Live and let live," is a policy that has come down through the ages and is an expression of the Golden Rule only in different words. There is a born in man a desire for self-preservation. It is a law of life, and to this desire can be attributed that which is considered selfishness within us. Every man has little regard for the rights and properties of others. He lacks the sense of equity and justice and is guided solely by the brutal instincts. Intelligent man realizes that all his fellow creatures are entitled to the same rights he would enjoy himself. Therefore, where the Christian spirit is found, there can be looked for such equity as gives all an equal chance to gain a livelihood and to enjoy the fruits of their labor.

There should be the greatest harmony among the citizens of every community. The interest of all the classes comprising a city or a district should be considered identical. It has been noted that the most prosperous towns have been built up by harmonious and united effort of all the people composing it. In these days when there are evils to combat, when oppressive trusts exist that are factors in the destruction of wealth, it is all important that the masses in each and every community unite and work in harmony for the protection and betterment of local conditions. It is to be regretted that in many agricultural communities there is a lack of harmony between what is called the business interests and the producers of crops. Different reasons may be advanced for this condition, but the most common cause is a misunderstanding on the part of the citizens as to the relationship that should exist between them. It is wrong for the teachings that go forth that the farmers' interests are different from those of the merchant, or that the merchants' interests differ from farmers of the community. It is also an erroneous idea that the town is a place for the town people and the country districts for the farmer. Is it not true that the merchant is dependent upon the farmer for his supplies? And it is true that the town is an important thing to the farmer. It is a convenience to him and he is as deeply interested in all that pertains to it, to its advancement and the betterment of its public utilities, its streets, its parks and all as are the people who reside within the town. The merchants should realize the importance the farmer has of them, and the farmer should be brought to a realization that the town is for him as well as for those who reside within its limits. The less antagonism between the residents on the farms and the residents of the town the better it will be for the whole community. There is a unity of interests that cannot be ignored, and there is a common field wherein all can work for mutual benefit.

GET-RICH-QUICK GAMES.

Government Investigating the Operators of Bucket Shops That Do Business Through the Mails.

In times of prosperity there are always chances for the grafter. During the past ten years has been the era of the get-rich-quick man. No sooner does a scheme play out than another takes its place. Thanks to the ever diligent postal inspectors, and an unrelenting government, the schemers are not so plentiful as a few years ago. For some years a number of supposed legitimate grain and stock brokers thrived in both eastern and western cities. These were active in soliciting through the mails, and through local offices the business of small investors. The millions of money gained from the unsuspecting people was never known in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and other cities large and extensively conducted offices were maintained. Once the government got on the case, there were those who were discovered that resulted in fraud orders being issued against a number of the concerns. The end is not yet, and the work of extermination will be kept up till there is none in operation. Buying stocks in a fair market is a risky business, but when there are schemers to stock the cards against the investor, there is not a ghost of a show. Many a bank clerk and business man can trace his downfall to speculating in the bucket shops.

Deadly Common Plants.

The things that give the most pleasure to the eye are frequently the most deadly. Among flowers, for instance, the beautiful snowdrop, the hyacinth, jonquil and narcissus are all poisonous, and to eat the smallest part of the root of either of them would produce fatal results, while the juices of the leaves will cause violent vomiting.

The berries of the yew tree have killed many people, and the opium obtained from poppies has also claimed its victims. Lady's slipper and lily of the valley are both dangerous, and if the blossoms of crocus are chewed they will cause vomiting. Flowers from bilious roots, however, seem to be the most dangerous, and it might not be out of place to dealers in these to label them with a cross-bone and mark them poison.

Cigarettes and Conscience.

The man who limits himself to cigarettes shows a consciousness of mind. The seven-spotted with some hidden conscience that feels it is not right to smoke, but he smokes it, and with great bravado determines to be a devil of dog, and take a cigarette—Grate.

NOTHING ELSE TO DO.

Jim Hance is one of the characters who go with the Great Canyon of Arizona—part of the general plan to speak. Jim has a ranch about 14 miles from the chief hotel, and he comes over there at times to talk to the tourists.

Jim likes to tell stories to the tourists. He thinks he has a copyright on all the tales of the region, and, in fact, considers himself one of the guardians of the canyons.

A woman from Boston was quizzing him one day. "How does it come, Mr. Hance," she asked, "that you never married?"

"Oh," said Jim, "I had a wife once, but I lost her."

"Lost her? How was that?" "Well," said Jim, shedding a tear, "I married a girl out here and she was the prettiest thing you ever saw. I took her over to the ranch to live, and we were very happy. She always wanted to go down the canyon on my trail, but I kept her from it until one day she said she was put off no longer. So I took her, and she came on a dandy mule and we started. On the way down, just at the worst point, the mule went over a cliff and a sheer drop of 3,000 feet in the other side, she was stung the mule on the flank. The mule rose up and my wife fell off and over the edge of the cliff."

"What happened?" exclaimed the Boston woman.

"Why," said Jim, "my wife fell into the most inaccessible part of the canyon, and it took me two days to get down there. When I did get there I found her. She had broken one of her legs."

"Well," gasped the Boston woman.

"Oh," said Jim, as he moved away, "of course, I had to shoot her."—Saturday Evening Post.

Famous Women of Japan.

Women played an important part in the early history of Japan. To a woman, the Empress Jingu, belongs the glory of the first conquest of Japan, that of Korea, A. D. 201. Dressed as a man, she led her fleet over the unknown waters, across which she alone believed a narrow way lay to the westward. "If we succeed," she said to her chiefs, "the glory will all be yours. I will be responsible for the defeat of a possible defeat." The Koreans laid their wealth at the feet of the conquerors and the king swore that so long as the stars above and water ran down hills Korea should be faithful to Japan. This achievement of the empress gave rise to the boast of the Japanese, "The arms of Japan shine beyond the seas." But the important part of her victory was the introduction of Buddhism from Korea, as well as Asiatic art, science, medicine, and literature. Jingu, however, never actually proclaimed head of the empire. The first female ruler was Suiko, and since her time eight empresses have governed Japan, some of them with great wisdom.

London's Awful Smoke.

Sir William Richmond, a well known friend of the Royal Society, once finds himself in unexpected directions to drive home his arguments to his laudable but hitherto unsuccessful campaign against the London smoke nuisance. Lecturing the other day, he told his hearers that the late springs and early falls in London were caused entirely by smoke. The pollution of London was also due to the same cause, for the smoke excluded the sunlight and where there was no sunlight there was no color. The reason why the smoke was so physical deficiencies of the poor to his pet aversion. Premising that nothing could grow without light, he declared that poor districts were often too dark while the snub noses and retreating chins so common among the poorly bred natives of London were largely due to the absence of light caused by smoke.

New Fire Escape.

A Swiss engineer announces a new fire escape. It consists of a series of folding iron ladders, contained in frames, attached to the window casings, each reaching to the window below. By merely turning a small wheel on any floor all these frames are pushed outward from the building, the ladders extended and securely connected with each other, thus forming a continuous ladder from the top floor to the ground. The manipulation is simple and takes less than a minute. When not in use the escape is drawn up and does not mar the figure of the facade of the building in the manner that the ordinary outside iron staircase does. A public test of the new escape has proved successful, and the Vienna fire brigade representatives have expressed their approval of it.

She Caught the Idea.

The teacher of a public school class of little girls had been endeavoring to impress upon her pupils the significance of the comparative and superlative degrees.

"For example," she said, "here is a coin that is bright. Here is one that is brighter—this is comparative. This, here is one that is brightest—this is superlative."

After explaining several other illustrations she asked for voluntary contributions. A small girl, who had been asked to contribute, and a golden-haired child promptly rose in her place.

"I know," said she. "This is one that is brighter—this is comparative. 'Brighter'—this is comparative."

"Recite," said the teacher.

NO TIME FOR STUDY.

People Who Are Either Too Busy or Too Indolent for Self-Improvement.

That person who takes no interest in affairs of his fellow men, who fails to keep himself informed as to what is transpiring around him, is far from being either progressive or well-informed. These days when papers and magazines are so plentiful and so cheap, there is little excuse for the average person not keeping closely in touch with events, and particularly keeping enlightened as to what is inspiring that may affect his own individual interests.

One of the great beauties, and an extraordinary privilege of our American form of government, is the right of every citizen to take a part in public affairs and particularly in governmental transactions. How many party leaders, perhaps blindly, and too late find that they made errors through not having understood the situation? How many who are negligent in the study of measures proposed are brought up for consideration both by state and national legislative bodies, and too late find that unwise laws were enacted that directly oppressed them? How many who are ignorant of the workings of the government are gathered in by alluring promises made in the finely printed literature sent them, and then find the cause for the purpose of exploitation of fraudulent stock companies, just through not keeping informed as to the means and methods of the promoters of such frauds to ensnare and schemes to entrap the unwary? It is conservatively estimated that each year more than $50,000,000 are taken from the earnings of the people just through the operations of fraudulent mining, oil, insurance and like concerns. It would be impossible for the promoters of such frauds to ensnare the people careful readers of the newspapers and the magazines, the pages of which are filled with accounts of the doings of "get-rich-quick" schemes.

These days there is every opportunity for self-improvement. Rural delivery newspapers tend to the more remote farms, and telephones connect the farmhouses in the average community. If the people were only to utilize the means so close at hand, and to take the time to read, and examine into such propositions as interest them, there would be less cause for complaint on the part of those who perchance get their "fingers bitten." It is evident from the success that exploiters of schemes meet with, that the masses of people lack good business judgment, or that they are blinded by some inherent gambling desire. It is always a safe plan to avoid any investment that offers more than legitimate returns on an investment. Any proposition that will pay even ten per cent. a year, and where the principal secured can find all the capital that may be required for its operation, without calling upon the general public, it is only the uncertain kind of investments, the ones that are a "gamble," such as mining, and the like, that are most prominent in the advertising columns of the papers. The reason in which the promoters work, is the inclination of the people to seek great returns for little money. It is the same sentiment that has caused the numerous speculative lottery schemes, and the numerous establishments located in different parts of the country to dispose of cheap goods at enormous profits through holding out to the people the promise of extraordinary prizes.

The well-informed man will avoid all kinds of investment schemes that are designed to draw money from the pockets of the people, and will also refuse to buy any "pigs in bags." It matters not whether the matter of barter be stocks and bonds or the necessities of life.

Contrary to Home Building.

Trade is the life of the agricultural town. Any system that diverts this trade from the town is injurious to the community. Here lies the evil of the mail order system. By drawing the trade from the towns, the principal support goes, and the trade disappears from the employment for the people, the school system, and the churches and all the advantages that the town affords to the people. The community, not alone this but home markets are destroyed and the farmer finds the value of his land reduced. Have the importance of home trading and home support instilled into the minds of the farmers in general, and there will be a rapid falling off of the catalogue house patronage.

Importance of Good Roads.

The town that has good roads leading to it is blessed. Surely there is no more reasonable thing, nor anything more adverse to the business interests of a place than impassable buggy roads. There is a little excuse in the fact that the community for poor roads. It may in the beginning be somewhat expensive to put the roads in order, but in the end it will prove that the saving in wear and tear on wagons and horses will well repay all the additional expense. And to the town good roads are almost vital. The average farmer would rather drive three or four miles farther to a town over good roads than to his trading when it is necessary to go hub deep in mud to the nearer place.

Adulterated Foodstuffs.

Recently a number of samples of coffee, sugar, and other goods sent out by a premium giving concern were examined by chemists in Missouri and in South Dakota and found to be adulterated. These goods were sold at prices as high as the local grocers charge for the best class of articles. These who are careful of their health should not buy foodstuffs that come from the mail order houses, or from the premium giving concerns.

Sauerkraut Trust is the Last Straw.
 The last monopolistic straw has fallen upon the industrial camel's back, and the tottering beast reels beneath the burden in the last agonies of dissolving mortality. The sauerkraut trust has been formed.
 It is announced that this conspiracy against the cornerstone of the republic has its inception in Toledo, O., where an organization was recently perfected bringing into one avowed group all the sauerkraut manufacturers in the United States. There are said to have been 40 individuals present, representing some 35 sauerkraut plants in Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin and New York, having a combined production of half a million tons of sauerkraut a year.—Ohio Magazine.

Early Cigarette Smokers.
 Who first introduced cigarettes into this country? They were first used in the streets here by the late Laurence Oliphant; and, curiously enough, the introduction of this method of smoking to the English people came as a result of the Crimean war.
 Our officers in Russia, among other hardships, could not procure tobacco or cigars, and learned the use of the cigarette from their French, Italian and Turkish allies, and also from their stay in Malta and Gibraltar.

Introduced into London military and naval circles, the new custom made very slow progress. But its use steadily spread from 1870 to 1880, when the fashion was set by the golden youth of those days.—The Reader.

To Make a Razor Sharp.
 Razor strops are prepared from strips of linoleum of the usual length and width, left for 20 hours in a one-eighth to one fourth per cent solution of hartshorn salt, to which 1 1/2 per cent of alum has previously been added, at the ordinary temperature. The strips are then dried at the normal temperature, rubbed with soap and polished with pumice stone.

They are finally fastened in the usual manner to wooden handles. Straps made in this way will give a smooth sharp edge to the razor.—Scientific American.

Annoyed by Scoffers.
 Mr. Troxell, president of the Bible class led by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, New York, complains that some of the young men belonging to the class are being "guyed" by outsiders. The secretary of the class occasionally sends out postal cards to the members, a number of whom live in boarding houses. Other boarders have manifested a tendency to scoff on seeing the postal cards and President Troxell, hearing of this irreverence, is indignant.

The Very Latest.
 Here is the latest handed out by the Hialito. You put your hand palm upward and with fingers and thumb extended say to your friend as you go to the trick yourself, before his eyes: "Can you do this? Bend your fingers over slowly and altogether, like this, until the finger tips touch the palm of your hand without bending your thumb?" And he says: "Why, sure, I guess I can do that," and he does at the first try triumphantly, and then you say to him: "Well, I guess you can squeeze a lemon."

His First Thought.
 "That," said Senator Beveridge of a witicism, "was hardly put. It is like the remark of the old veteran. This aged man, going from his room one night to let out the cat, stumbled on the bang and pitched headlong down into the hall.
 "Why, Silas," called his wife, "is that you? Did you fall downstairs?"
 "No," grunted the old fellow, rising slowly. "Yes, I did, and for about a minute and a half I thought I'd lost my pension."

Money-Making in America.
 New York city, at its impressionized by Henry James in his new book, "The American Scene," reminds the distinguished experienter that "to make so much money that you want, that you don't mind, don't mind anything, is absolutely the American formula," and that "your making no money—or so little that it passes for none—and being barely distinctly reduced to reduced amounts to your being reduced to the knowledge that America is no place for you."

Not After That.
 Little Forest had just started to school, says the Chicago Tribune. His father was accented on his way home one evening by a neighbor, who said: "Well, little boy, is a home fighter at school?" On arriving home the father summoned the boy at once. "Forest, is it so that you fight with the boys at school? Oh, well, I fight everything up to the fourth grade!"

Seasons for Illness.
 "I never knew before that hospitals had a busy season," said a woman who goes about, "but I was looking up a sanitarium for a friend last other day, and found that in the summer there were reduced rates—a sort of discount for the sick—that their busiest months were February and October. Their every bed was full and every nurse busy every minute."

A Great Favorite.
 The German schnapper, Speck von Sternberg, has won the hearts of the Roosevelt boys by teaching them horseradish riding and jumping. The boys have a prince in the Franco-German war.

EDUCATION AND PROTECTION

Two Vital Things to Be Considered by Those Who Would See the Greatest Progress and Advancement.

Where is found the greatest advancement and civilization there is also found among the people the highest type of fealty and love of home. The American homes are the most substantial pillars of the nation's greatness, and in American citizenship is found the bulwark of our republican government.

Where the home life is ideal, there is found genuine patriotism which is always commensurate with the enlightenment and the domestic happiness of the people. How important it is then that every safeguard be thrown about the home, which is the spot where are produced for development all the strength that is necessary for the perpetuation of a government and the maintenance of a national greatness.

The student who will study into conditions of the countries that are continually wrecked by internal turmoil, such as Russia and the Central American republics, will discover that the homes are far from ideal homes, and that there is an absence of the love of country that should be found in the hearts of its citizens. There is a duty that involves upon all, and which is due to the generations growing and to come. The duty is to surround the home with such circumstances as will make it attractive and develop in the growing youth the highest qualities of mind and womanhood. Where the home is one of peace, order, industry and frugality there is no incentive to develop the highest state of home life. In America where all are upon an equal plane and opportunities are open to every citizen, and where the people are secure in their rights to homes, there is every reason why each one should make the greatest endeavor to found for himself and his progeny a residence place that will be sure from intrusion and be an incentive to higher mental and social development.

Education is all important and no other country in the world offers to all such glorious advantages to receive enlightenment as does the United States. It is important that the home be located near good schools. Good schools are generally found where there are good homes and good towns. The quality of citizenship of a community can generally be gauged by the standard of its educational institutions. It is important to the home builder that the town wherein he is located or which he may reside near be a progressive place. And the better that this town be, the better will be its educational facilities for the youth. It is essential to the greatest good of a community that it be realized by all residing within it that the people within it can be made the greater by its advancement both as to education and otherwise. By support to home institutions the home is made better in every way. Patriotic citizens will make it their first aim to be loyal to their own home interests and then their state and nation. One who is loyal to home is generally faithful in the performance of his duties that good citizenship implies.

Who Makes the Town?
 The editor of the paper at Coyle, Okla., asks in large letters, "Who makes the town?" To make a town requires the work of many people. It is surely not the man who earns his wages in the town and then spends his earnings elsewhere; not the farmer who sells his produce to the home merchant and then takes the money to the express or post office and sends it to the Chicago mail order house for the goods he needs; nor the minister who is paid for preaching by the business interests of the place, and spends his spare time in working up grocery clubs for an outside concern. No, brother, these men do not make towns.
 Gov. Folk on Home Trade.
 "We are proud of our splendid cities and we want them to increase in wealth and population and we also want our country town to grow. We wish the city merchants to build up and we also desire the country merchants to become more numerous. The mail order citizen. If a place is good enough for a man to live in and make his money in, it is good enough for him to spend his money in."

Misfits in Songs.
 "I'm going to see a new American play tonight," she said, "and I'll bring an English author. All the best American plays these days are written by English authors."
 "I hope they are more accurate than the songs they write," remarked her friend. "Have you forgotten the English song that had a chorus about the Cotton fields was down in Old New Jersey?"

Killing the Small Towns.
 It is impossible to build up towns without there being business to employ the people who reside in them. The mail order system of doing business is killing off the small town, and as a result the farmers residing near them suffer by having a poor market, and poor schools and other blessings of the kind that go with the live town. And this is the last farm values are kept down.

GIRLS TO RESCUE.

Bob White Receives Support From Unexpected Quarter.

Mr. Robt. W. White yesterday received the following letter, neatly typewritten, through the mail:

"BOY-GIRLS."

An organization has been found among the young ladies of Hopkinsville, for the protection of "Bob White" against the night riders who have threatened him with his life. They are quite indignant, as this threat not only keeps Bob White away from home, but deprives a lot of them of pleasant little trips, so the night riders have a new thing to go up against in Kentucky, which amounts to a great deal more than they think. So, with so many pretty girls on his side, Bob White, is surely coming out of the blues wonderfully, and has a new lease on life.

THREE NEGRO WOMEN.

Charged With Robbing a Gracey Farmer.

Deputy Marshal Henry Steele and W. R. Hammonds arrived in the city Thursday morning with three prisoners whom they had arrested on the charge of robbing Robert Mason. Mr. Mason is a well-to-do farmer of near Gracy and has been partially paralyzed. He had over $1,300 in a wardrobe in his house, the proceeds from the sale of his tobacco crop. The three women, Susie Parks, Alberta Mockabee and Farra Caudle, it is said, went to Mason's house and two of them engaged Mason in conversation while Susie Parks went in the room where the money had been placed, and prizing open the locked door of the wardrobe, took $821 of the $1,300. The three then left. Mason notified Hammonds of what had occurred, and took Deputy Marshal Steele and started in pursuit of the women. They came up on them about six miles from the house and placed them under arrest. The three women are now in jail awaiting their preliminary trial, which has been set for next Tuesday morning.
